Behold, One Oil King
Our Flying Army
How Crime Is Financed
Name It "Newton"

—By Arthur Brisbane—

LOS ANGELES, April 3—The gasoline threat that worried the big oil men a few days ago is becoming reality. Here the price has been cut as low as 10 cents and deeper cuts are expected. This is due to disorganized production and disorganized distribution.

Any buyer who exults in the low price of today acts prematurely. He will more than make up for it later on.

Old royalty, kings, emperors, etc., are going out. In the realm of finance, kings are coming in. The American Government, interested in United States prosperity, might make a careful study of Sir Charles Deterding, head of the Shell Oil Company.

An able Dutchman, born in Holland, knighted by the British, with his office in London, Deterding surveys the world from the oil man's point of view, literally, as an imperial conqueror.

In the Dutch East Indies where his company started, he has gigantic holdings, at the door of China.

An understanding with the British Burmah interests gives him an oil supply inside the import duty frontier of India.

He has gigantic oil deposits in Venezuela, and in California; he is one of the biggest owners of oil territory, very convenient for shipping to Japan.

He has great holdings in the Mid-Continent field, and his yellow signs are scattered, his yellow Shell wagons busy, literally all over the United States.

The other day as lowest bidder he supplied the Japanese navy with oil for a year at 54 cents a barrel, the lowest price ever quoted, and probably bought it from independent California producers for 40 or 45 cents.

California produced the oil, Japan gets the oil, Deterding gets the profits. The United States sees its oil supply diminished.

American companies are not allowed to operate in their own country, as Deterding operates here.

Standard Oil of California must confine itself to its own territory.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and New York, each has its territory.

Deterding has the whole of the United States, and all of the outside world for HIS territory.

There is a savage oil fight now going on between Standard Oil of New York and Shell Oil in the Orient.

Prices are cut ruthlessly, especially in China, where kerosene is the important product. Also in Japan, where gasoline becomes more and more important.

Deterding, a genuine, fully developed octopus, can afford to burn up millions in his price war with Standard Oil in China, making up for it by his profitable business here in the United States. No Sherman law restrictions for him.

He is making progress in Australia, Africa, all over the world. A real business man.

It might be wise for the United States Government to drop some of its childish fetishes and let American corporations grow as big as they can grow.

On Mather field, Sacramento, Brig.-Gen. William S. Gilmore directs the manoeuvres of army airplanes, greatest gathering in the history of the army air corps.

One hundred and fifty-nine army planes, from small swift pursuit planes to heavy bombing machines, are taking part in manoeuvres such as would be necessary in actual war.

Heavy bombing planes fly low, protected by swift pursuit planes, ready to beat off any theoretical attack.

Men that have inspected the equipment of European machines, including France and Britain, say the "provisional wing" commanded by General Gilmore is as efficient a unit as would be found anywhere on earth.

The next thing is to make our air fleet 10 times as big as it is and to arrange for building of all mail and civilian planes in such fashion as would make them efficient, under the direction of army officers, in case of need.

A Los Angeles man and his assistant are locked up here for operating, quite openly, a 400-gallon still. The man's wife tells the judge it is wrong to arrest her husband, since he was "paying $200 a month to men from the sheriff's office, and supposed everybody knew he was running the still and paying the men." Each day the still produced 250 gallons of alcohol, taken away openly in a truck. When the barn containing the

Three airplane pilots were arrested in New York today after the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. J. Morgan Corbett, wife of wealthy Boston realtor and a former naval aviator. They are charged with beating up James D. Quinn, another flier, of Brooklyn, who was named by Morgan in a divorce suit filed in Cambridge last fall. Revealing an amazing story of love, jealousy and an airplane kidnaping, three aviators were arrested in New York today in connection with the beating of a fourth aviator and disappearance of a fifth aviator's flier wife.

She is Mrs. Philomena C. Corbett, wife of John Morgan Corbett, wealthy Boston realtor and former naval aviation instructor, who sued her last November for divorce in Middlesex County.

The flier who was bound, gagged and then beaten in an effort to draw from him Mrs. Corbett's whereabouts is James D. Quinn of Brooklyn, N. Y., attached to Curtiss Field, L. I.

TWO FROM BAY STATE

Under arrest and charged with assault and battery on Quinn are Arthur Hamel, 29, of Haverhill; Edward Kendall, 29, of North Reading and Edward Kliene, 30, of New York.

These men are understood to have charged that Quinn kidnaped Mrs. Corbett in an airplane and flew her to a hiding place. Quinn was named by Corbett in the latter's divorce suit.

According to Quinn's allegations, his three fellow-fliers now under arrest lured him to Edgewater,

Sullivan Says He Paid Garrett $100 Monthly

John F. Sullivan, Hotel Ritz proprietor, an aged man, said that he paid Garrett $50 a month from the time of the first raid, and later $100 a month until the hotel was padlocked.

He said Garrett threatened him and made him "come across."

The payments were made at times to Mrs. Garrett, he said, when she went to the hotel, and at times to Lillian V. Hatch, the cloakroom concessionaire, said to have been Garrett's aunt.

HOTEL RITZ OWNER IS RECALLED TO STAND AT RAIDER HEARING

John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Hotel Ritz, admitted on the witness stand this afternoon that he paid money to Oliver B. Garrett.

"Do you know that Lieut. Daniel H. Hines has a larger bank account than Garrett?"

Resuming the witness stand at the Garrett hearing at the State House today, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson was met with that question hurled by Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall.

In the hearing room, jammed to the very doors, the query burst with the force of a hand grenade. Had a bomb actually exploded in the room it is doubtful whether the spectators would have been more surprised.

Lieut. Hines of the liquor squad! Garrett's superior! A larger bank account than Oliver B. Garrett, who, with his wife, banked at least $122,959 in the six years he worked as a liquor raider on the Boston police department!

At the intimation of the question the crowd gasped, was stunned! Somebody said, audibly, "Oh!" Commissioner Wilson appeared astonished. He answered, finally:

"No, I didn't know anything about it."

So was begun, under Hall's relentless inquiry, the sensations of a new day in the attorney-general's investigation of Garrett, now revolving about Wilson's eight years of administration at the head of a law enforcement department alleged to be rotted by graft and corruption.

If the police commissioner's admissions of yesterday were damaging they were devastating today. If ill at ease yesterday he was tortured on the rack of his own answers today.

Hall's questions rattled with machine-like rapidity. Wilson's answers were slowly made in words carefully chosen.

"Why didn't you make a thorough investigation?"

Time after time, Hall shot that query in various phrasings with relation to charges which reached the police commissioner accusing Garrett and Hines and Capt. George W. Patterson with graft.

"Why didn't you make a thorough investigation?"

Wilson's own phrase in which he described to the legislative Rules Committee his "investigations" of Garrett was hurled back at him continually in the questions of his tormentor.

Finally he admitted that his "thorough investigations" had been "more or less investigations."

Finally he admitted that a "thorough investigation" was not made of Garrett's farm and the charge made to him, as early as

Resign, Mr. Wilson!

POLICE COMMISSIONER HERBERT A. WILSON should RESIGN AT ONCE.

If he does not voluntarily tender his resignation, Governor Allen should demand it. AND GET IT.

Commissioner Wilson's admissions at yesterday's hearing in the Garrett case show him to have been an inefficient head of the police department.

Boston needs, at least, a police commissioner who, when charges of graft are made against his men, will really INVESTIGATE those charges.

Boston DOES NOT WANT as police commissioner a man who, by his own admission, delegates such investigation to the man actually accused.

Why a real investigation of graft charges against Garrett was never made, the commissioner thus far has failed to answer SATISFACTORILY to the Boston public.

Regardless of what has gone before in the Garrett case, regardless of what may follow—

Police Commissioner Wilson should VACATE HIS OFFICE.

Boston needs a man of strength and courage at the head of its police department.

Mr. Wilson has proved by his testimony that he lacks these requirements.

It is obvious this city need expect no reform in its police methods so long as he is the man in command.

The one thing he can do to relieve the conditions his regime has tolerated is to QUIT—NOW.

ALLEN HINTS LIEUT. HINES HAS BIGGER BANK ACCOUNT THAN EX-RAIDER GARRETT

November 15, 1927, that the farm was supplying rare resorts and bootleggers.

"Why didn't you do it, Mr. Wilson?"

And Wilson answered: "I can't answer that now."

"Is there any reason—I now ask you in all seriousness—is there any reason whatever in the face of these things why a thorough investigation was not made?"

The commissioner replied: "There isn't any reason in the world that I know of—not a reason in the world."

The spectators who booed and jeered one of his answers yesterday were warned today that demonstrations would result in their expulsion from the hearing room. But they laughed at times at the commissioner's answers.

Senator Joseph J. Mulhern, consistent assailant of Wilson's record and a prime mover for the Garrett probe, occupied a seat of prominence and wore a smile of enjoyment. Garrett was present with his attorney, Herbert F. Callahan, feeling "great, never better" in his own words.

And if he enjoyed the discomfort of his former commander he gave no outward sign that he did.

The reference to Hines and Hines' bank account was followed after a period by questions relating to the "investigation" which Hines made of Garrett's farm. Several times Hall referred to the liquor squad officer as "our old friend, Lieut. Hines." The crowd enjoyed it.

In his answers, the police commissioner gave further evidence of the implicit and sublime faith which he had in his men regardless of the seriousness or number of charges which he received against them.

In connection with the "investigation" of the Garrett Pine Grove Farm at Hingham, Hall shot at him:

"You didn't try to get the evidence, did you?"

Wilson answered: "I was as much interested in getting the evidence as you were."

Hall then brought out in testimony that although Wilson had promised the legislative rules committee all "dates and facts" in the Garrett case, he had not furnished that body with Governor Ahearn's Fuller report to him in which Garrett was not a proper person to be a liquor dealer.

Wilson said he thought only the salary were wanted.

"Do you think this report made to you by the Governor was trash?" Hall asked.

"No. I didn't think they wanted it," the commissioner replied.

"Now," said Hall, "I ask you what you did to investigate the information made to you charging against Garrett."

Wilson replied slowly: "I made no investigation."

Hall demanded to know why Wilson had not discharged Garrett on his own initiative as a result of information given him by Fuller in connection with Garrett's farm dealing with Dudley F. J. Mulcahy, alleged bootlegger.

"Because," said Wilson, "there wasn't sufficient evidence. There was simply at a prize fight with him."

"Not prize fight—prize fights," corrected Hall.

Didn't Know Lt. Hines Was Also 'Gentleman Farmer'

And again, as yesterday, he answered: "I took the word of the captain." He admitted that Capt. Patterson had not denied the charges, but had submitted them to a subordinate for investigation.

"And that man was our old friend, Lieut. Hines, was it not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you know that Lieut. Hines was also a gentleman farmer in Hingham?"

"No, sir."

"Did you know that Lieut. Hines had a farm near Garrett's?"

"I did not," said Wilson, and reiterated his confidence in Hines.

Wilson said he got into the record Hines' report to Wilson on the Pine Grove Farm. It was the order was issuing with Dudley F. J. Mulcahy, alleged bootlegger, as president, and a Mrs. Ethel Wilson, as treasurer, and Hazel W. Wood, secretary. And that was all of the report.

Never Got Any 'Specific Denial' From Garrett

Hall struck into the alleged collusion between Attorney Hines and Garrett and a lawyer named Callahan, charges contained in one of the letters received from Commissioner Wilson's files and read into the record yesterday.

Garrett's personal attorney at the investigation is Herbert F. Callahan. Both were present as the hearing started.

Wilson was forced to admit that he had received a specific denial from either Hines or Garrett in connection with the charge that Hines had worked with Callahan in the prosecution of bootleggers.

And he was forced into that admission after Hall had drawn from him the statement that he would discharge from the police department any officer found guilty of violating the rule which forbids him to accept or consult counsel in connection with a case he is prosecuting.

And he admitted also that he never made any investigation to that charge beyond receiving from the state police their sole report as it related to other charges contained in the complaint from a man who signed himself a "Citizen."

Then Hall turned once more to Wilson's own files in which were set aside the many complaints received by him against Garrett.

From it he selected a letter dated Oct. 15, 1928, signed by "Investigator," an anonymous person, who charged liquor was being sold at a Washington st. address by two men who boasted they were Garrett, Hines and Capt. George W. Patterson of the liquor squad a sum each month.

The informer gave the names of the bootleggers, said they had been

as a result of the investigation. There wasn't any more.

Hall then brought out in testimony that although Wilson had promised the legislative rules committee all "dates and facts" in the Garrett case, he had not furnished that body with Governor Ahearn's Fuller report to him in which Garrett was not a proper person to be a liquor dealer.

Wilson said he thought only the salary were wanted.

"Do you think this report made to you by the Governor was trash?" Hall asked.

"No. I didn't think they wanted it," the commissioner replied.

"Now," said Hall, "I ask you what you did to investigate the information made to you charging against Garrett."

Wilson replied slowly: "I made no investigation."

Hall demanded to know why Wilson had not discharged Garrett on his own initiative as a result of information given him by Fuller in connection with Garrett's farm dealing with Dudley F. J. Mulcahy, alleged bootlegger.

"Because," said Wilson, "there wasn't sufficient evidence. There was simply at a prize fight with him."

"Not prize fight—prize fights," corrected Hall.

Wilson Says He Relied on Captain's Reports

Hall referred to one of Wilson's complaints about Garrett read into the record the day before, stating in one section: "Lieut. Hines and Officer Garrett are working hand in hand with the assistance of a well known lawyer, with the bootleggers, letting them get off with a small fine or go scot free."

"Did you, in consequence of that letter, investigate whether Atty. Callahan frequently appeared in Garrett's cases?" Hall inquired.

"No, sir."

"You didn't consider that 'our worthy of investigation, did you?"

Wilson replied that if the 'our' referred before him on reliable information he would have investigated it.

"You did not investigate because you did not consider it reliable?"

"No," said the commissioner, "it simply a thing was happening I relied on Lieut. Hines and Capt. Patterson to let me know about it."

He said he didn't think he had ever asked them to investigate whether Callahan appeared in a great number of Garrett cases.

Once again he said of Hines and Patterson: "I have implicit confidence in both."

But, pursued Hall, "you knew that Hines had one of the cases secured in that communication?"

"That is true," Wilson said, "but he is a loyal and efficient police officer."

Then the crowd gasped as Hall shot: "Do you know that Lieut. Hines has a larger bank account than Garrett's?"

Wilson answered: "No, I didn't know anything about it." There was astonishment in his tone.

"You never made any investigation on that point?"

Wilson admitted he had not and added that he had never heard, he said, the charge concerning Callahan. "I relied on his (Garrett's) reputation," And Hall added: "Ever

Captain Patterson Only One to Report in Complaint

"Did it occur to you after these numerous complaints that it would be well to name a trial board and have appear before this trial board witnesses to see if there was anything to these charges or not?"

The commissioner admitted it had not occurred to him.

From Wilson's files, under date of November 15, 1927 was read a letter informing the commissioner that Garrett had a farm in Hingham and was supplying bootleggers

Warner Is Praised By Pastors for His Garrett Inquiry

Dr. Robert Watson, secretary of the Lord's Day League, speaking for himself, Rev. A. Z. Conrad of the Park St. Church and the Rev. Lyon Radcliffe, pastor of the College Ave. Methodist Church, today praised Atty.-Gen. Warner for the way he is conducting the Garrett investigation.

Dr. Watson commented on the investigation on his way to a conference with Governor Allen at the State House. He said his visit to the chief executive, however, was not connected with the Garrett case.

If there was a delivery of milk to houses of ill repute that was a violation of every rule in the book, what's it Hall asked.

Wilson started to reply: "If his wife was running it."

Hall waved a figurative mace at the figurative bridge behind the commissioner.

Hall's wife was coming in according to your testimony of yesterday, that would not have added to the difference of Garrett?"

Wilson answered: "No, I wouldn't sanction that."

Then: "Why didn't you investigate?"

"I can't answer at this date why I did not."

"Can you give any possible explanation where this thing was so simple that it could be arrived at here, why you didn't make a thorough investigation?" the special prosecutor demanded.

"No," said the police commissioner, "all I can say is, I can't."

He admitted that in that case a thorough investigation had not been made, and that it should have been.

"Why didn't you make it, Mr. Wilson?"

Again, "I can't answer that NOW."

Why didn't you put it before a trial board?"

"Where would I have got witnesses?"

Hall sprang the trap and said: "Just where we in this investigation got our witnesses, Mr. Wilson?"

Later: "You didn't try to get the evidence, did you?"

Again: "I took the word of the captain."

With gentle sarcasm, Hall inquired: "The man detailed by Capt. Patterson to investigate these charges was our old friend Lieut. Hines?"

"Yes, sir."

SAUGUS BLAZE CRIPPLES VISIT DRIVES OUT 10 POWER GRAVE

Ten persons were driven to the street in their night clothing today when fire swept the Bond building, a three-story wooden structure in Cliftondale sq., Saugus, causing damage estimated at $10,000.

Help was called from Lynn, Wakefield and Melrose when the blaze threatened to spread to adjoining buildings, but a fire wall saved the surrounding structures.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman Peter Flaherty, who raced through the building after sounding the alarm.

The families forced out were Mrs. Alma Mattinson, her daughter Anna and another daughter, the Misses Alice M. Hannah M. Katherine and Gertrude Foley, Mrs. Etta Heath and her two sons, Philip and Armand.

Telephone service on more than a dozen lines was crippled when a valve was soaked with water.

Patrolman Flaherty first noticed smoke coming from the basement of Pat's grill and almost immediately a burst of flame mushroomed up throug the building and soon checked until it reached the third floor.

While officials stated the fire started near a cook stove in the basement of the grill, they could not determine the exact cause. Fire Chief Melin Joy called in State Fire Inspector James Grady of Winthrop to investigate.

The building is owned by Henry Sarrabian.

Atty. Clapp appeared before the full bench to argue against the appeal of Brissenden from a ruling of Judge Sanderson of that body on Wednesday in which the recalcitrant witness was ordered to answer the questions put to him at the Garrett investigation.

W. H. Shea, counsel for Brissenden, and Atty. Clapp were given until Wednesday by Chief Justice Rugg to file briefs in the case.

still burned down blazing alcohol compelled attention.

To make 250 gallons of alcohol costs about $375. The bootlegger will buy it for $1250, add coloring matter and other ingredients and sell it for $6250.

You see that bootlegging is profitable. The still operator makes $875 a day, the bootlegger gets $5000 a day. The $200 a month alleged to have been paid to the sheriff's men seems small.

The fact that there are hundreds of stills, big and little, throughout the country is due to the generous financing of our modern crime wave.

The small new planet, whose existence was asserted by the late Professor Lowell, continues to agitate scientists.

Guided by Newton's law, Professor Lowell knew that disturbances in the orbit of Uranus must be accounted for by the existence of another planet. Officials of Lowell observatory, following the new wanderer on the outskirts of our solar system, say it behaves exactly as Professor Lowell would have expected.

A distinguished French astronomer says it is too small to amount to anything, but would change his mind, if it shifted its course and struck this earth in the neighborhood of the Place de la Concorde.

The Geographical Society of Mexico very sensibly suggests the name "Newton" for the new planet.

Had it not been for Newton and his law of gravitation, "directly as the mass, inversely as the square of the distance," scientists could not have known of the planet's existence.

RASKOB GIVES $65,000 TO AID REPEAL, WON'T INVOLVE PARTY

SAYS NO MAN CAN PLEDGE DEMOCRATS

National Chairman Is Grilled Briskly by Lobby Probers; Answers With a Smile

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Called for questioning in regard to his stand against prohibition, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today testified before the Senate lobby committee that he had "no right to commit the Democratic party on either side of the question."

After testifying he had contributed between $65,000 and $66,000 to the association against the prohibition amendment, of which he is a director, Raskob asserted he was careful not to mix his personal beliefs on prohibition with the affairs of the Democratic national committee.

"My opinion," he said, "is that no one can commit the Democratic party on this question except the National convention. I shall not try to influence any Democratic member of this question."

During the questioning Senator Robinson, Indiana, asked Raskob if he intended to restrain the Democratic chairmanship in response to a suggestion made by Josephus Daniels in his North Carolina newspaper.

Daniels, navy secretary in the Wilson cabinet, had attacked Raskob for his membership in the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment while holding the post of Democratic chairman.

The question went unanswered after Caraway and Walsh vehemently protested that it was irrelevant.

After the committee session, newspapermen asked Raskob if he had any objection to answering the Robinson question. He replied that he had none.

He asserted he had no intention of resigning.

Chairman Caraway asked the perfunctory opening questions, inquiring as to Raskob's occupation.

The witness replied "executive."

"Of what?" chairman Caraway continued.

Raskob said of the DuPont Co.

Caraway asked the relation to the association against prohibition.

SEES HOPE FOR CHANGE

"I don't know the full name of it," the Arkansas senator added.

Raskob said he was a director of the association and had been for five years.

"Its purpose is to attempt by education to convince the people of the United States that the Eighteenth Amendment ought to be repealed," Raskob asserted.

"How you much hope?" asked Caraway.

Raskob laughed before he answered, "Yes, I think I have a great deal of hope that we are making progress toward modification."

The Democratic chairman said he contributed $12,500 in 1928, $50,000 in 1929 and had pledged $3?,000 for 1930. Part of this year's amount already has been paid, he added. Other contributions, he said, were made before 1928. Raskob read a list of the names of men comprising the board of the association.

"I note some Irish names on it, and I judge it is bi-partisan," remarked Chairman Caraway.

"Yes, I think there are more Republicans than Democrats on it," added Raskob with a laugh.

"There usually are on election day, anyway," put in Caraway.

DuPONT CONTRIBUTES

Included in the list of directors was the name of James W. Wadsworth, former Republican senator from New York.

Caraway asked Raskob if he had been members of Congress in regard to their views on prohibition since he became a director.

"No," said the witness.

Senator Walsh (Montana) asked the names of other contributors to the association, but Raskob said he did not know them, aside from Pierre S. DuPont of Delaware.

Senator Walsh asked the extent of Raskob's participation in the association.

"I am not active," Raskob explained. "I am largely in the position of a contributor. As a director I attend some meetings to hear reports."

Replying to Walsh, the witness said the association was interested in the election of anti-members to Congress, but that he had not taken part in such a campaign.

Under persistent inquiry by Walsh, Mr. Raskob said he had never been intimated in the manufacture of liquor, and so far as he knew, none of those connected with the association were interested, now or in the past, in the manufacture of liquor.

"Glurb, glurb," they interpreted as the minister's familiar "Do you take this woman," etc.

"Glurb, blurb", unquestionably the bridegroom's response "I do," was followed a few seconds later by a weaker "gurgle, gurgle," obviously indicating the blushing bride's promise to love, honor and possibly, obey.

The ceremony over, the aquatic man and wife make haste to leave their watery altar, while the Rev. Dr. Shepard, loosening his heavy diving helmet and fumbling at a thoroughly wilted collar, mumbled something about being "all wet."

SISTER AIDS IN MILES DEATH PROBE

Has Lengthy Conference With Prosecutor; Exhumation of Body Considered

Mystery surrounding the death two years ago of Basil Miles deepened today following a conference in Washington between Mrs. Thomas Sorrette, sister of the former diplomat and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Neil Burkinshaw, leading spirit in the strange investigation.

Mrs. Surrette, who is generally credited with instigating the investigation of her brother's death two years after he departed, was closeted for some time with the prosecutor in Washington, according to dispatches, but full substance of their conversation was not revealed.

It was indicated, however, that the proposed exhumation of the former diplomat's body was under discussion, and that Mrs. Surrette was loath to authorize the step.

At the same time, Department of Justice agents revealed that the mystery woman in the case, the one who visited the hospital in Washington where the diplomat died, is now in California.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief investigator for the department, is quoted in New York, as having described this woman as an intimate friend of Mrs. Henry Huddleston Rogers, beautiful wife of the Standard Oil magnate, and former wife of Miles.

Miles died in Emergency Hospital in Washington, June 14, 1928, shortly before he was to be discharged as completely recovered from a minor operation.

Several callers had just left the room when the screams of Miles' wife, now Mrs. Rogers, attracted physicians. Miles was dead when a doctor reached his side.

Hoover also described the woman friend of Mrs. Rogers who was at Miles' bedside today, he died, in vestigator Hoover said.

"Frankly, I don't recall her name," he said, "but it is listed in the reports made by the operatives assigned to the case in Washington and undoubtedly she is in California. Whether she will be able to add anything to what we know at this time or something I cannot tell at this time."

Among those questioned to date in the case are Dr. Edward J. Grass, resident physician at the hospital, who certified that death was due to pulmonary embolism, a clotting of the blood, which caused asphyxiation.

If the new trial is granted, American doctors will be called to testify as to Anderson's mental condition. If the appeal is denied and a new trial refused, Cameron said the procedure will be to move by affidavit of doctors that Anderson is insane and then demand a mental examination by the province. Should Anderson be found insane, the death sentence would automatically be reprieved and he would be placed in a mad asylum.

Matthew J. Ryan, city solicitor of Berlin, N. H., where funds are being collected from New England sportsmen to aid Anderson's defense, called on Anderson today in the death cell of the county jail. Ryan said Anderson was spiritually composed and gaining his faith in the efforts to obtain a new trial.

Ryan intimated Anderson's mother may travel to Sydney to give evidence of Anderson's mental condition. She had not heard of her son for two years because he traveled under the name of Emmett Sloan, under which he was condemned and sentenced.

'BIG 3' TO SIGN, END PARLEY

London April 4 (AP)—The American delegation this afternoon tentatively assigned representatives to return home on the Leviathan, April 22.

It was stated at American headquarters that this day was regarded as the limit to which the conference would be extended.

It also was authoritatively stated all the delegations feel the conference must be brought to a close within a comparatively short time.

Signing of a three-power pact by the American delegation appeared to the London conference today by issuing, through its official spokesman, a statement which observers interpreted not only as a pointed reprimand to France but as indicating that Italy is thoroughly satisfied with the present Anglo-American agreement, and confirming French demands for security.

The Italian feeling has been known to be that conferences by the United States, Great Britain and Japan and quick adjournment of the naval conference, was in ana?thoritative quarter to be quite possible. This would involve leaving the questions of French security and Franco-Italian parity to be signed in other fields.

"I was at the hotel several weeks before Agent Yates was sent there to work on the case," said Miss Costello. "Yates registered as my brother by order of Administrator Herbert. I registered as Esther Holden and Yates as Joseph D. Holden.

"He paid the rent for his room and turned it in on his expense account, as is required of a regular agent, and I paid for my room out of the $5 a day allowance."

FRENCH HURL BOMB INTO THE PARLEY WITH PARITY DEMAND

London, April 4 (AP)—The days, but today's broadside was the first official expression.

The spokesman declared that Italy's claim to parity with France is unchanged, although France "wants us to accept inferiority in naval strength."

He further announced that Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian delegation, felt that the security pact which France demands as compensation for cutting her naval figures is a matter for the League of Nations and should not be discussed at the London conference.

"After all," he said, "we came to London to talk disarmament, not to talk about the League of Nations covenant."

The Italian statement brought expressions of gloom from the French delegation.

The French were freely inquiring among themselves whether any useful purpose could be served by their remaining long in London.

Foreign Minister Briand, leader of the French, has not yet given an opinion on the subject, however, and the final word must come from him.

Conference circles in general admit that the Franco-Italian situation is none too good, but they recall that other international conferences have produced crisis and that sometimes statements which are issued at moments of stress appear worse on the surface than they ultimately prove to be.

TENNESSEE AND KANSAS VOTE BONE DRY

The vote for strict enforcement shows a slight gain in the fourth week's returns of The Literary Digest's "straw" referendum on prohibition, though Kansas and Tennessee are the only two of the 48 States reported which are voting bone dry, according to tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

There are 735,857 new votes reported this week from 20 additional States.

Of the 2,000,340 post-card votes returned through the mail and counted at the poll headquarters, 868,751 or slightly over 42 per cent of the total are wet and 308,232, or nearly 30 per cent, vote damp, while 853,337 are bone dry and demand a strict enforcement of the prohibition laws.

In every southern State except Tennessee the combined vote for modification and repeal is larger than that for enforcement, while in Maryland the vote for repeal is considerably greater than for both modification and enforcement.

In Florida, Kentucky and Louisiana the vote for repeal substantially ances the total for either modification or enforcement.

OKLAHOMA DRY

In Maine, which has long been considered the bulwark of the prohibition movement, the drys outvote the wets by 4118 to 4035, but there is a third damp group of 2589 who favor modification.

Oklahoma, one of the baby States of the Union, votes vigorously for strict enforcement, returning a total that almost outweighs both that for modification and repeal.

Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin continue to vote strongly wet, as does also the tiny domain of the District of Columbia.

MISSISSIPPI DRY

"Mississippi favors enforcement by a small majority, but Tennessee goes dry with a bang; its enforcement vote soaring beyond its combined modification and repeal votes," the Literary Digest states editorially.

"Texas gives enforcement a solid plurality, but is counterbalanced by Virginia with a vote of similar proportions, giving its chief weight to repeal. West Virginia however, rallies for the drys.

"Turning to New England we find Massachusetts delivering 3,664 dripping wet votes, as against 15,804 dry and 16,723 damp ones.

"New Hampshire and Vermont on the contrary back the dry cause. Rhode Island, which is looking forward to holding an official prohibition referendum, plunges hard for repeal."

"Flying Editor" Ends Long Hop in Japan

Osaga, Japan, April 4 (AP)—Coming at last to the end of his long air trail from Croydon, England, to Japan, Van Kear Black, Baltimore publisher, has reached here from Seoul, Korea. He left Croydon Feb. 9, traveling an estimated 8,000 miles before setting his plane at the airdrome here.

REED EXPOSES LEAGUE COURT ON RADIO

Chicago, April 4—In an appeal for staunch American nationalism against internationalism, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri denounced the League Court here in a radio address over a coast-to-coast network.

It so happened that the speech, under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, came coincident with a blazing battle for the Republican senatorial nomination from Illinois, between Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and Senator Deneen, with the League Court as the leading issue.

For that reason the scathing arraignment of the League of Nations and the League Court by this champion of Americanism is expected to have a tremendous effect upon the senatorial race, although he did not mention either candidate by name.

After a masterly exposition of the League and the so-called court, and the effect, as he sees it, upon the future independence and prosperity of America, Reed took what was accepted as a direct fling at Deneen without calling his name. Deneen voted for American adherence to the court in 1926, but all the efforts of Mrs. McCormick to force him to state his position on the Root-Sir Cecil Hurst formula have thus far failed.

Senator Reed's subject was "Nationalism Against International-ism." He said in part:

"War destroys the intellectual equilibrium. Out of the wreck and ruin of the world conflict there emerged a little of fantastic and dangerous philosophies. Of these the most menacing is the cult-ism of internationalism. Before America entered the conflict the pacifist made his appearance.

"The first effort was to induce the United States to become a party to the Versailles treaty. Had we signed that document we would have been directly involved for 50 years in the imposition upon the German people of the hard conditions France extorted at the point of the bayonet. We would have become the sanctioners of the atrocities of Singalese occupation, and in wise, failed.

"It was further proposed that we should undertake to establish 'mandates' in Asia involving the maintenance there of a large standing army, with the certainty that in case of Asiatic-European conflicts we would immediately become involved. This scheme, likewise, failed.

"Then came the substance the guarantors of a Quasi-Germanic slavery.

Lovely Mariam Lee of "My Girl Friday" prefers the PLAIN BOB. Proper care keeps her hair in wonderful condition.

The easy way to have soft, wavy, gleaming hair...

THE modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day models of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it is so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new luster and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair, brings out its natural color; gives it more glow than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

Now that we have so many idle unwillingly, why doesn't the government, in conjunction with the various states, initiate labor-providing projects?

These would include wiping out the mosquito, eradicating the boll weevil, eliminating the corn borer, the destruction of all rats, cutting down the number of flies, stamping out the gypsy moth, draining of the swamplands, prevention of a repetition of the Mississippi flood, erection of the legend of the best battle fought by each division in the late war on some suitable spot in the state from which the most men came.

This is a rich country. May it never become poor.

Boston. FRANK J. DOOLEY.

Recalls Problems of Overnight Camps

Editor Boston American:

Mayor Curley's remarks about the white slave traffic in Massachusetts would probably not be made without foundation in fact.

Now everyone believes that, with the automobile, vice has tended to run along our highways. Everyone can see how easily over-night camps can become a moral menace. Everyone who knows the small town knows that many of them are not equipped to care for places set up on their outskirts. They have not the health or the police officers necessary. Today the over-night camp carries on license, no sanitary or moral controls. A bill to give if these checks was slaughtered ruthlessly in our state senate. The reason given was that the small towns did not want it.

Was it really the small towns or was it city pressure? A senator showed a letter from a man living outside the state. He said he ran a chain of these camps and wished no interference. Here was no small town pressure.

With all that seems now coming to light, ought not a legislature to feel that it was a great blot on its scutcheon to have never given a shove to such a plainly needed protective measure? I know the fall election looms and the party in power naturally does not want to throw votes to the Democrats by being hard on city panderers but in the end, evil will out as in the case of the present police investigation.

Of course, the state needs moral and sanitary controls for over-night camps and these controls can only be adequate if the public health and public safety commissioners are given power to help.

Says Postal Workers Are Well Cared for

Editor Boston American:

The closing of the Back Bay postoffice has caused considerable comment in that part of the city. It was said that members of Uncle Sam's force had been thrown out of work due to the closing of the office at an earlier hour. This was untrue.

None of the members of the Back Bay station lost their jobs. Many were transferred to other stations and the remainder work other hours during the day.

Uncle Sam takes very good care of his members and very few postal clerks can say otherwise. And the public should know that.

Open New Medical Clinic for Dentists

Editor Boston American:

A third medical clinic is to be opened to dentists, members of the Boston Guild of St. Apollonia, at the Boston City Hospital on first aid emergency surgery under the direction of Dr. Joseph Burnett on April 8. The other two medical clinics which have been opened to dentists are held at the Carney Hospital, on lung and heart diseases under Dr. Edwin J. Denning, and at the Boston City Hospital on communicable diseases, by Dr. Edwin Place.

These clinics are opened to prepare dentists as auxiliaries to physicians in times of epidemic and also to train them for emergency surgery in time of war and other calamities when physicians are not able to cope with the situation.

It is the intention of the Guild to create a group of dentists who will be prepared to become real health officers to the public in time of need.

Daily Antique—Windsor Chair—No. 63

This chair is said to have been sat in by George Washington while he ate breakfast during a visit which he paid to Portsmouth, N. H. It is a Windsor chair with arms and solid wood seat dating from the latter part of the 18th century. This type of chair is very graceful and shows a marked advance in comfort over previous types of early American chair-making. Models of this type, and the corresponding side chairs are fairly common, but none the less highly treasured by their owners.

The owner of this historical piece is T. C. Washburn, prominent real estate operator and connoisseur, and it is among his collection at 1 Creek sq., Boston.

MODERNS SHOW THEY KNOW THREE R'S

By NANCY BREWSTER

Suppose that those who are dissatisfied with the modern school system were given their desire for the old fashioned teaching of the three R's in the public schools today—what would happen?

Stoughton clubwomen determined to demonstrate this mooted question and presented reading, spelling and arithmetic, both in the old way and by the modern methods, during one of the most informative and interesting club programs of the year. Stoughton high school pupils assisted.

Parents who had before entertained grave doubts of the wisdom of present public school curriculums "had their eyes opened wide" by their own high school sons and daughters, who showed "what's right with the modern system of teaching."

Just how this absorbing program was put on by the Stoughton Woman's Club was graphically told by the president, Mrs. Paul A. Kelen, during the discussion of club programs at club institutes. Heeding in having experts present both sides of this question, and then showing the actual work, will be copied by many clubs when year books are made up.

How to present valuable club programs without cost was another topic of universal interest, as Miss Annie G. Minckley of the Barnstable Women's Club enumerated the many programs secured by her club without cost. As she talked scores of pencils scribbled names of interesting persons who may be secured for special subjects on club programs.

State Federation officers will be spared hearing the same programs in many different clubs as their travel about through the State, if the plan of the Reading Woman's Club is followed when these officers are entertained. This club had its choral class give a musical program following a most successful Valentine luncheon, and this was considered one of the best programs of the year.

Unusual programs were described by Mrs. Charles W. Bailey of the Quincy Woman's Club, Mrs. R. A. Berry of Framingham, Mrs. John M. Murney of Danvers, Mrs. Verne Q. Powell of Arlington, Mrs. Sara F. Hall of Everett, Mrs. Albert Connor of Franklin, Mrs. Robert Walker of West Concord and Mrs. Clyde Swan of Barre. Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, state chairman of Club Institutes, presided.

DORCHESTER CLUBS FETED

Release of Will Hays' new decalog for better motion pictures were given to several hundred Dorchester clubwomen by Mrs. William J. McDonald, a special guest of the Italian Woman's Club at the tercentenary celebration fete in progress all this week at the Strand Theater in Dorchester.

Dorchester clubs participating in the celebration are the Alpha Physicians' Wives, The Dorchester Womans' Club, Pilgrims, Book Review, Dorchester Community House, the Florentine and the Nuova Ideale.

Ex-Circus Star Says Ban on Pets Will Shorten Her Life

Haverhill, April 4—Mrs. Gertrude Swasey Wilson of Washington ave., former circus queen, is heartbroken because the officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have taken away her nine dogs and three cats and placed them at the farm maintained by the society at Methuen.

With her only pet dog left, wrapped within her arms, Mrs. Wilson said: "I don't think I will live very long, now that they have taken my only friends away from me. They have shortened my life, for they were all I lived for.

"Years ago, when I had 10 horses, 60 cats and all kinds of dogs, they didn't do anything to me. No; because I was somebody and a great circus performer. Now that I am old and have nothing, they are making my life miserable."

INCREASE AUTO OUTPUT

New York, April 4—An 18 per cent increase in the March production of automobiles over the February output is outlined in reports received by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The March output totalled 400,000 machines.

At a meeting of the board, Fisher W. Woodruff, president of the White Motor Car Co., was elected to the board of the directors.

THE SPRING DANCE FOR the sub-debutantes, which takes place Monday at the Copley-Plaza, under the chaperonage of Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Jr., Mrs. E. Gardiner for the subject, in honor of her granddaughter, Miss Frances Gardiner; another by Bobbie Ellsworth, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ellsworth, who will have a dozen or more to dine. They say that a number of the debs will be there, including the Misses Nancy Hallowell, Phyllis Ellsworth, Helen Warren, Gretchen Breuer, Lorna Livermore and Beatrice de Menocal.

Several matrons have resigned the League: Mrs. Austin Scott of Hubbard at Cambridge, Mrs. Sullivan Sargent of South st., Needham, and Mrs. Leslie Soule of Cottage st., Dedham. The League Scribbler Club held their last meeting of the season next Monday at the League rooms, Commonwealth ave.

MOTHER SUES AS SON FAILS IN SCHOOL

Lacoma, N. H., April 4 (AP)—Suit for $10,000 was filed today by Mrs. M. A. Tahor of Tilton, against Thomas W. Watkins, headmaster of the Tilton school, as the result of her son John's failure to graduate from the school.

Mrs. Tahor is the wife of a South American representative of the United States Steel Corporation. The case will be heard April 10.

Mrs. Tahor alleged that her son was a senior at the school last year and that Watkins refused to allow him to attend classes unless she remained in Tilton each day of the school year. This stipulation, she said, caused great inconvenience and that consequently the boy was taken from school without graduating.

Crocus Colors Step to Fore In Spring's Newest Shades

THE crocus colors of sunny yellow and soft green are stepping to the fore this season as fashions for little girls. Yellow or green on small blond young ladies is most complimentary to their coloring, and the two colors may be combined with exceeding happy, dainty results.

Often the smart yellow is accented with other colors in embroidery, smocking or the print of the material.

The adorable little girl's frock pictured is fashioned from one of the prize prints designed by children in a contest which boasted entrants from all over the United States. The designs are refreshingly whimsical and the colors fresh and charming, picturing flowers, toys and animals, and would be a continued source of joy and interest. About 5000 designs were submitted, the prize prints chosen by a jury of artists. The one pictured has yellow chicks, small green trees, and what may pass for stylishly costumed Dutch children playing "ring-around-a-rosy." These gay stories are available for children's spring clothes—and they may be rub-a-dub-dubbed in the tub without danger of paling from the shock.

THE silk dress pictured has a sunny yellow background, and hangs straight from a shoulder yoke smocked in the gay colors of the print. The white silk collar and cuffs are hand-stitched about the edge in the same vivid colors.

The wool coat for chilly spring days, is in Lanvin green, with two roomy flap pockets, turnback cuffs and collar. The double scarf of the material is detachable, and snaps on or off, it is run through a slit to be wound about the throat or adjusted over yoke and collar. Its two rounded ends are embroidered in conventionalized flowers toned white, yellow and orange.

THE matching tam is of the coat material, embroidered on top of crown section in three little groups of the flowers. Together, the coat and dress make a delightful ensemble.

MORGAN SEES NEW YACHT

Bath, Me., April 4—While J. P. Morgan, New York financier, and his son, Junius Spencer Morgan, were inspecting the new yacht being built for the elder Morgan, the coast guard cutter Dauntless removed a half-sunken lighter in the Kennebec river which it was thought might interfere with the launching of the boat next week.

The Morgans arrived by special railroad car and were accompanied to the shipyard by Captain W. H. Porter, who will command the vessel.

Washington, April 4—President Hoover has sent to the Senate the nomination of Roger Sumner of Massachusetts as a foreign service officer.

CHICAGO GIRL IN RECITAL

By MOSES SMITH

FRANCES GETTYS, a soprano from Chicago where men are men and sometimes show it, proved it, sang at Jordan Hall before a good-sized, cordial audience last night. Her program, beginning with a number from Haydn's "Creation" and ending with a song by the Chicagoan, John Alden Carpenter, included songs in French, Italian and English.

Miss Gettys has sung here before, but one does not readily recall her voice or her part. The voice itself is of lovely lyric quality, virginal in character. This character it never loses, no matter how impassioned the text and music of a song.

But there is nothing so tiresome as unadulterated and persistent purity. And we wished, more than once while Miss Gettys was singing, that this might become harsh, discordant, something else than the monotonous silvery whiteness that it is. Part of this difficulty is traceable, no doubt, to Miss Gettys' "temperament"; but much more, we think, is due to her failure to seize on the emotional and musical implications of her songs. One does not become an interpreter simply by learning how to sing.

A slight nervousness aside, which accounted for some tightness in management of her voice, Miss Gettys displayed adequate technique in the art of singing. She managed Haydn's long phrases dexterously, not chopping them into bits. In fact, her attitude toward singing seemed one of respectful emulations of the most eminent teachers. But this as we have intimated is not enough.

RUSSELL IS BIG BOSS IN HAITI

Port Au Prince, Haiti (AP)—The instrument which has given President Louis Borno the military power to support his tenure of office is now being turned in the opposite direction, and as M. Borno prepares to comply with the new government plan drawn up by President Hoover's commission, he finds himself the instrument's object.

This instrument is the decree of martial law, put into effect in January when the legislative elections should have been held under the constitution but were not held because the President declined to permit them.

Under the decree, complete power to keep peace in the country is placed in the hands of the high commissioner, Brig.-Gen. John H. Russell. Even the President is subjected to this decree. In any emergency, and under an order issued by Gen. Russell, he can not even send messages over the domestic telegraph line unless they are approved by the high commissioner, who, under orders of President Hoover, is determined to let no technicalities prevent returning the government to the people.

Fight Starts to Kill Iced Fish Car Tax

Boston Alone Would Have to Pay $45,000 Yearly if Plan Is Established

Do Boston fishermen and shippers want to save an expense of $45,000?

This question is voiced, through the Boston Evening American, by E. H. Cooley, secretary of the Massachusetts Fisheries Association. The 200 association members represent a group of about 25,000 New England people, who annually do a $50,000,000 fish business.

On next April 26, at Washington, an important hearing will be held by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The subject is a case dealing with the practice of the Norfolk & Western Railroad in assessing $12.50 for each refrigerating car used in hauling fish and other sea food.

The claim is that fish hauling ruins a freight car for other usage, and it is raising a storm of protest throughout fishing circles.

One he won't bite on

The joker is that if this charge is sustained, all other railroads using refrigerated cars will be allowed to nick the shippers' pocketbooks for this $12.50.

3600 Cars in This Class

Mr. Cooley estimated that this charge in Boston alone would be placed against 3600 or more such cars. This would mean an annual cost of about $45,000.

"This added cost would certainly be paid by the consuming public," commented the secretary, in urging a wider local interest in the case.

Mr. Cooley is going to Washington to represent Boston interests. He suggests shippers and others write to the Traffic Department of the U. S. Fisheries Association, in Washington, D. C., and emphatically protest.

This innocent little added charge on refrigerated cars means much to Boston. At the rate the industry is inclining toward frozen fish shipments, some 6000 cars annually will be hauled from the Hub in a few years.

"Fortunately," he continued, "our New England railroads always have been fair in such matters. Right now various railroads are very glad to use freight cars for shipping fish westward, for otherwise long lines of empty cars would make the return trip from the meat, fruit and vegetable centers."

Zepp Oversea Line to Start in 2 Years

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Within two years Dr. Hugo Eckener expects to have his transatlantic Zeppelin service in operation, with fares approximately equal the price of a steamship ticket.

This was revealed by Commander J. C. Hunsaker, one of Dr. Eckener's advisors, and vice-president of the International Transport Company, who has been assisting in the selection of an airport terminal for the service. He also said another Zeppelin will be constructed in Germany and two in America, and that eastward trips will be made in two days and westward in three.

Insurgents Blown to Bits by Afghans

Peshawar, India, April 4 (AP)—Eleven Kohistanis, or followers of the dead usurper, Bacha Sakao, have been blown from guns at Kabul, Afghanistan, in pursuance of execution orders.

PORT OF BOSTON
By CARL MORRISON

"Six days shalt thou labor and do all that thou are able. On the seventh day, holystone the decks and scrape the cable."

SEA GOING MADE EASY

Next Sunday we'll hear all about the "sailor's ten commandments" and other rollicking sea customs, when the boys from the Taber nautical academy return to Boston. They are due home from their three weeks' cruise to Havana and other ports on the United Fruiter, San Benito.

Old salts in the harbor snort in disgust when told that the boys shipped as ordinary seamen to learn the ropes. This fruiter, electrically driven, is a kindergarten compared with some of the old riggers.

Radio Bugs Active

The radio "bugs" are sparking just now. Another exam for commercial licenses was held yesterday by C. C. Kolster, supervisor of radio for New England, at the Custom tower. Twelve boys, mostly from Boston, spent a full day on their exams.

A fairly good demand exists for radio operators on ships in the East, and many of the 270 boys who take the tests each year will soon be pounding the key on the high seas.

Pull Up the Gangplank

The schedule of the May cruise of the Nantucket, the Massachusetts Nautical School, has been announced. The student sailors of this training ship will touch at these ports: Provincetown, Ponta Delgada, Cardiff, Dublin, Liverpool, Glasgow, Lofoten Islands, Bergin, Oslo, Amsterdam, Gibraltar, Casa Blanca, Santa Cruz, Canary Islands, and Gardiner's Bay, Greenport.

Keeping the Harbor Pure

Incidentally, out of 52 graduates of last year, all except two are officers on ships now.

Lobster interests in Boston have been complaining against captains who dump oil and bilge in the harbor. Such stuff kills fish spawn and lobsters. The oil also sticks on the coats of migratory wild birds who settle on oily waters. Death soon follows, as they cannot fly.

Recently a captain was fined $500 for oil dumping, and this severe punishment was made an example to others. Congressman Hudson of Michigan has introduced House Resolve 10625, calling for severe penalties against such practices. He doubtless would appreciate support of Boston harbor men.

Karlsruhe Off Tomorrow.

The North German Lloyd steamship Karlsruhe will leave Boston tomorrow on her first 1930 sailing. She will leave Commonwealth pier for Galway and Bremen with a large list of New Englanders and will maintain a schedule of a sailing a month during the summer.

While the Karlsruhe is steaming outward bound a big vessel called the Leviathan will nose out of South Boston drydock for her annual junket back to New York. More than 400 guests of the line will be aboard through the courtesy of "Bill" McIntosh, New England manager of the line. The Leviathan has had her face washed and then some, so she's all spick and span for her New York sailings.

Harbor Superstition

Even the collective wisdom of Amos and Andy would be taxed to solve this one. The fishing captains in Boston harbor have been caught in the act of a rather superstition. They carefully avoid turning against the sun, which would be sure to bring some great ack disaster. To refrain from sticking the nose of their boats "against the sun," most captains will execute surprising nautical stunts in backing.

Let George Do It

George Havican, in the recruiting service of the coast guard, popped into the Customs Tower press room. George, who had seven years in the navy submarine service, was complaining against landlubbers who say a submarine submerges after a storm breaks.

"It gets my goat," he growled for on my sub we always battened down, the hatches and let the storm break over us."

George didn't feel any happier when one of the ship news reporters wagered that George's sub always ducked under BEFORE the storm started. We're neutral.

Here's a World's Record

The Bay State Fish Co., which was listed in tariff hearings as having oil and marketed 17,000,000 pounds of filet in 1928, has passed that record. This East Boston fish factory last year had a gain of fully 25 per cent, passing the 21,000,000 total. This is twice the amount of any other firm in the country.

Breaks Her Own Record

The Breese has something to blow about. Twice this year, Capt. Kennedy, Captain Mate Jimmie Doyle have made records for big catches. Last February they came in to Portland with 195,000 pounds, and a few days ago landed in Boston with 215,000.

DRY? MODIFY? REPEAL.?

Boston American Prohibition Forum—$500 in Weekly Prizes

FOR MODIFICATION

A CONVERT

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I favor modification of the Eighteenth Amendment. At first I was inclined to believe in prohibition, but after reading a pamphlet written by William Stanley giving Biblical reasons why the prohibition law should be changed, I began a careful study of this momentous question.

In my opinion the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment in its present form would establish a dangerous precedent, by giving preference to the judgment of man instead of God. Thoughts, sayings and acts of men have no effect upon God's utterances, and all human opposition has been powerless to change His decrees, hence the prohibition law is wrong because of its opposition to the judgment and will of God. It never will succeed.

I fail to understand why the members of Congress will continue the senseless waste of millions of dollars each succeeding year, when they have the power to stop it and act in accord with the judgment and will of God by modifying the Eighteenth Amendment and giving the people what God intended they should have, pure whisky for medicinal purposes, pure wine and pure beer for use if they so desire.

ELIZABETH CHANDLER.
Lawrence.

MATTER OF RIGHTS

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Democracy, the soul genius of civilization, has precipitated another crisis. This crisis has arisen as the result of propaganda issued principally in newspapers. It, although denied by many, is socialistic in its ensuing aspect.

Frankly, the American people don't care whether John Smith or President Hoover drinks. The only question they are concerned with is "rights." These are the rights to live, act, and think according to personal tastes and the demands of society. The minute these are infringed, a crime is committed against the fundamental principle of liberalism.

To remedy an evil condition another and perhaps worse condition has been grossly substituted. And to deny the good or bad on both sides is ignorance in its lowest form. There must be a clear view of the entire issue in order to judge the situation fairly. This view is the "right" of the people for equality and justice in treatment.

"Drys" visualize an infringement of rights because the "wets" are in possession of only part of their mental faculties when "soaked."

"Wets" see their personal freedom restricted and insured by ill-fainted enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Undoubtedly, modification is the only solution. But in taking this as an answer to the problem there is a necessity to protect rights. This can be accomplished if there is a greater degree of co-operation extended by the "drys" than has been by the "wets."

But again there is a question. Let us be sure that we can jump back to land as easily as we seem to be jumping away from saloon nationalism into bigotry and fanaticism.

EMERY L. HALL.
79 Magazine st., Cambridge.

FOR REPEAL

MORE SALOONS

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. It has created unbearable conditions, shame and corruption. The speakeasies are increasing every day. Why, in my neighborhood where we had a saloon before prohibition, there are many such places, families with children, selling moonshine beer and what not.

Think of this example to those dry ex-service men: little more than a shame to think that intelligent people know of such conditions and still insist in carrying on with this already exhausted trial of prohibition.

It's not a human problem, this prohibition enforcement—it's a supernatural one so why let human things that are not yet able to control themselves dictate as to what's best for humanity.

God, by creating wine, gives us all necessary ingredients for the manufacture of beer, wine, whiskey or gin, so why not consume those ingredients instead of dumping them at a loss contrary to even the laws of nature?

If certain states insist on prohibition let them have it, but by all means, let those opposed carry on legitimately the sale of liquor, by so doing people will be satisfied, contented and peaceful.

CHARLES A. DIONNE.
135 Ludlam st., Lowell.

"IT IS UNJUST"

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am in favor of repeal of the prohibition law. Mr. American emphatically is alone responsible for the unrest I feel in regard to the Eighteenth Amendment, as no constitutional right was given me to voice my opinion by "one vote" in regard to our liberty granted us in the United States.

We American people are known the world over for our freeness at heart, but take something from us without counsel and we feel hurt; we crave for justification, a fine sensitiveness true in American blood.

These Letters Win $5 Each on All 3 Questions in Popular Forum

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Happy to take advantage of an unprohibited opinion. My voting selection is repeal. Why?

1. Prohibition has betrayed us in the penalty it deals.

2. It is not the will of the great majority, nor a question of morals, but one of self-discipline against abuse. To drink or not to drink is a problem for the individual, rather than the government.

3. If only a minority desire, why conciliate a modification of an unacceptable condition, or, worse still, permit it to continue?

4. Abrogation would harm no one, and prohibition has been demonstrated to be a failure, for consumption of liquor has not diminished, although "prohibited," and at the same time corruption and criminality have increased.

5. The huge annual dissipation of taxpayers' money used while experiment is diverted to public works would be gaining ground against one of the pangs of the unemployed, and the liquor sold under government control would not be poisonous.

6. Liquor-law "violations" have hundred-fold thought of more vitally important laws.

7. Why not charge the past loss up to experience, and, with due wisdom, denounce the works of the meddlers with the original Constitution, thereby ratifying the sound judgment of the straight-thinking founders of the U. S. A. who did not see fit to make it a federal matter?

Need I say more?

WALTER T. SAMPSON.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

The Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed for the following reasons:

It was a measure passed when the minds of the people were turned to a more important thing, namely, war. Also the public was not given a chance to honestly vote and express their opinion on an amendment which was to affect their personnal liberty.

At the time it was passed most of the congressmen were drunk and, when they became sober they realized the mistake they had made but could not rectify it, thanks to the Anti-Saloon League and their methods of legislation.

These fanatics sneaked the amendment by when 4,000,000 men were in uniform fighting an enemy that endangered the rights of our people and these fanatical zealots. So while the boys were laying down their lives for freedom of international rights these traitors were stealing their unguarded personal rights at home. Surely if any one deserves the right to vote and give their opinion it is these 500,000 men who were not given the chance at a thing which menaced their personal liberty.

(Patriotism.)

PHILIP KRUPP.
135 Norfolk st., Dorchester.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Since 10 years of trial have not brought the desired results, prohibition should be modified. People who wish to will always find means to obtain liquor, just as they find means to gratify their other desires, in spite of laws.

In obtaining the Eighteenth Amendment we jumped from one extreme to the other. Instead of first striving for temperance, we tried to force total abstinence on the people.

"Force," said Edmund Burke, "is temporary." Therefore a law which to obey the majority of people have to be forced, cannot possibly be upheld.

The helplessness of our government to enforce prohibition, has caused contempt for all law among the criminal classes, with the result of the present crime wave. Nearly all the great men of the past were temperate partakers, but not abstainers from liquors.

I advocate permitting light wines and beers for home consumption only, leaving whiskey under government control for medicinal purposes. This would remove the temptation of forbidden fruit, which is even now undermining the health and morals of our youth, and would prove a fatal blow to the deadly bootleg trade.

MRS. C. H. S.
Bellevue rd., Squantum.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I favor modification of the present law for the following reasons:

It has caused corruption of officers and public officials, sworn to uphold the law, and to easily disregard their duty for the temptation of the easy money to be gotten, thus causing a very dangerous situation for the security and welfare of the nation if this is not checked at once, and the present crime wave throughout the country is evidence of its effect.

While "modification," to allow beer and wine under government supervision, will satisfy the public in general, it will yield the government a large revenue. Instead of wasting millions of dollars for enforcement the savings could be used either for lower taxes, or used for government projects to help the unemployment situation and business in general.

JACOB F. RAND,
3 Westminster ter., Roxbury.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

The Creator gave human beings reason, intellect, and free will, governing their appetite in drink and food for their body maintenance. Who can improve on this scheme? Do we also need a guardian? By what authority? Has the Creator blundered, are men and women not self-sufficient?

Are we responsible to our Creator for the crime of felony in drinking fermented liquors? Is there an earthly tribunal to whom we are responsible? Yes, in America you become a felon, while in England you are still a gentleman. Distance settles the question.

Are we Americans weak, and palsied. And pitied by our European neighbors for our complete collapse? How absurd, this is a free country.

Who is this man ransacking my home? A policeman. If you drink, you go to jail. Perhaps that is the safest place. Why jeopardize your life on the public thoroughfare? But what about my children? Be consoled my friend, our lawmakers will see they are protected from the bootleggers, highjackers, rampant crime, evil associates, etc. so forget it.

14 Bay rd., Revere.
AUGUSTA HAPPENNY.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Every sensible American citizen wishes to minimize the human consumption of intoxicating liquor. That the use of alcoholic liquor will some day be an absolute custom is the hope of a progressive civilization. But to accomplish this purpose we must have to advocate rather than legislate.

Law enforcement under the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead act have demonstrated that intelligent, free-will human beings do not like to be forced to change personal habits and the sanctity of the law is forgotten when law so attempts to regulate personal human conduct on a large and unwelcome scale.

Respect for law is more vital to its success than war-like and inquisitorial measures for its enforcement. A majority population will not tolerate the tyranny of a minority, nor legislation forced upon them by other sections of our large country where their social problems are different.

The constitutional rights of the people of each state demands that in personal problems, at least, each state should provide for itself. Let us repeal this law and try again as other nations have done with this same problem.

WILLARD M. PUTNEY,
Glencliff, N. H.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I believe that the Eighteenth Amendment because as a law of our country passed by God-fearing men it will be the means of true moral advancement of our nation. It will be a wonderful aid to the development of our civilization and culture.

One way for our nation to develop a higher standard of living is to live above our wants such as the liquor habit that gives so little personal satisfaction in comparison to the evil that is derived from such indulgence.

Let us not think only of the present but of the generations to come; let us make this nation one of the most beautiful places, morally physically, mentally, spiritually and financially, for the generations to come.

Let us leave this world in a little better condition than we have found it. Thus give the younger generation something to be proud of, something to strive for, namely, a higher civilization. May they be proud to go forward remembering their ancestors as the ones who created and enforced the Eighteenth Amendment, thus making this country a safer place for them to enjoy and appreciate in the deepest manner.

H. MAUD MILLER.
Franklin Sq. House, Boston.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am in favor of prohibition for several reasons. In the first place, the children of our cities are better clothed and better fed since prohibition than before. I mean among the common people. Why? Because dad brings home his pay envelope instead of handing it over to the bartender.

Next, automobiles are not good mixers. A rum-dazed brain cannot function properly in the manipulation of the fast, rum-paralyzed arms and legs cannot move quick enough to avoid accidents. This has been proved by many men who have tried to drive a car while under the influence of liquor.

If we had as much rum now as we had 15 years ago in the number of cars there are today, the junk piles would be overloaded the hospitals overcrowded, and undertakers would be overworked.

A dry nation means a cleaner country, more happy homes, more sacred Sabbaths. It is better for everybody. The only trouble I see now is in the fact that there are hypocrites who delight in outlawry. In bootlegging instead of keeping law and order.

E. M. ROLLINS
Belmont, N. H.

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

The Eighteenth Amendment should be left just as it is, or be made more severe.

Prohibition, before it was passed, we were buying and drinking alcohol and liquors which were 50 per cent poison. That was proven some years back, when a magazine (Collier's, if I remember) was sued for an article dealing with the impurities in ales and beers. The magazine won in the U. S. courts.

There were also a brewing company in Massachusetts which was put out of business because of the impurities of its products.

Now, all this being true, we needed prohibition, and I hope it will stay as it is as I want our country to keep improving all the time, to be a better place for my children and anything which will grow up in.

No more filthy bar rooms, no more drunken men and women on our streets, on our street cars; no more places on the corner for fathers and young men to spend their week's pay in before they get home. Thank God for prohibition.

JOHN J. RATTIGAN.

FOR PROHIBITION

STRONG 'DRY'

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. It is not only the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution, it should also be considered the "11th commandment."

Like the Ten Commandments, this law will never be entirely enforced. Yet no one would think of repealing that ancient law.

Prohibition will be hard to enforce until this generation of liquor lickers is dead.

You cannot expect to eradicate an ancient vice in ten years.

The bootleggers are the old saloon-keepers, without the law.

The saloon-keepers would be the only ones to profit by the return of liquor.

The American home would be the one to lose by it.

The Constitution puts liquor in a class with narcotics—where it belongs.

No man has lost any liberty by that law; it is only a restraint on license.

Those politicians who were back of the saloon are now back of the bootlegger.

As long as these persons are in power this law will be hard to enforce.

The trouble is not with the law, but with our citizenry.

We have been doing better in the last ten years than at any similar period in our history; therefore I am for prohibition.

ESNY G. LOWENSTAM.
1 Howland st., Roxbury.

SAYS IT'S GREAT

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I am a staunch believer in prohibition. It is an idealistic enterprise that is sure of success. The prevailing chaotic condition is but the natural course of events. Have not all great undertakings met with stubborn opposition? The violation of any given law does not disprove its practicability or necessity.

Some vast evil must precede its enactment, otherwise there would be no motive for its being. I have heard no suggestion that the Ten Commandments be repealed. Yet, have they not been violated through the ages? Are they not being flouted today?

Our early colonists risked their necks conducting one "noble experiment"—Lincoln saw another to a glorious finish.

I should hate to think that modern America is contemplating surrendering to the saloon-keeper, or his lower brother, the "bootlegger." The eyes of other nations are on us, the way we are disporting ourselves, and they have sufficient cause to view us with ridicule and contempt. Let's show the world.

J. F. TAYLOR.
83 Farragut rd., South Boston.

GOD NO DRINKER

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

I believe in prohibition:

Because I cannot imagine God as a drinking Being.

Because prohibition is reducing the heartaches of the world.

Because prohibition means clearer minds and healthier bodies for future generations.

Because prohibition is a step to higher ground socially and morally.

Because I believe that the greatest blessings of Almighty God will follow the nation that lives closest to His ideals.

Oak rd., Milton. J. W. T. A.

PLEA IN RHYME

Editor of Prohibition Opinion:

Accept these lines for your august opinion on prohibition

That say the country's dry.
But every sailor has his port
And farmers have their rye;
Cotton still has its gin,
And sea-coasts have their bar,
So why not vote for wine and beer?
Whosoever we are?

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by sour curd in the digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, relieving diarrhea.

A teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a dozen doses of lime water in neutralizing sour milk, for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and baby are fully explained in the interesting booklet "Useful Information." It will be sent FREE. Write to The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. ever since its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Associate Editor of the Boston Sunday Advertiser

Down through the years from 1880 to 1930, historic Boston has lived a transition that provides many interesting sidelights.

Personalities that step out from bygone days . . . events . . . anecdotes . . . many unusual features seldom found in purely historical articles, are interestingly chronicled in narrative style by Mr. Reardon.

Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, eminent historian, has enthusiastically endorsed the articles and asserts that they are a real service to the Tercentenary celebration.

partition where this thing was so simple that it could be arrived at as this was you didn't make that much investigation A—No, not at this time I can't

Q Would you Mr. Wilson, call the investigation made in that case a thorough investigation? A—No, I should't say now that it was.

Q—This was only the culmination of a whole series of complaints entering against Garrett I mean? A—Yes, all anonymous communications.

Q—Every one could have been verified in every particular instance except with relation to the specific charge by your own officers could it not? A—Yes sir.

Q This particular complaint was so easy of investigation that a thorough investigation should have been made should it not? A—Yes, sir.

Q Why didn't you do it Mr. Wilson? A—I can't answer that now.

Q Will it ought to have been done I do it? A—Yes I'll admit it should have been done.

Q If it had been done Mr Atkins the result would have developed then and there the discharge of Garrett from the force?

A Yes if the facts as alleged were proved.

Q Why didn't you put that phase of the case before a trial board Mr. Wilson? A—It's hard to get witnesses to prove this. Where would I have got witnesses?

Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Hall answered: "I told where to find the resignation and got our witnesses Mr. Wilson." Looking like the picture of ship of the Pine Grove farm and ascertaining whether milk was being sold to such houses that is a simple thing to do isn't it? A—I don't know but simple it would be

Q Did you not think, in view of this, that Hines should not conduct the investigation? A Lieut. Hines and Capt. Patterson conducted the investigation

Q—The captain didn't himself deny information contained, but [illegible] A—Yes sir.

Q—The was detailed by Capt Patterson to investigate those charges is one of friend Lieut Hines, is it not? A—Yes sir.

Q—Did you know Lieut. Hines was also a gentleman farmer in Hingham? A—No sir.

Q—Did you know Lieut Hines had a farm near Garrett? A—I did not

Q—When did you first find that out? Wilson spent some time in it? A—Yes sir.

We have 82 pianos, Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used [illegible] in homes of Boston and suburbs and they may be used until we need them [illegible] each week, or an indefinite time. A number of the company's retail stores have been closed and nine of these instruments have been elected from our Norfolk, Richmond and Lynn stores. All pianos sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future and for the valuable advertising we receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Many radios, phonograph combinations, phonographs and records will be sold at prices almost unbelievable

At the Radio Dial

By THE RADIO EDITOR

OPERATIC TENORS are being showered upon the radio audience thick and fast. Less than a fortnight Charles Hackett holds the limelight and [illegible] the superstition [illegible] prevailing has induced him to forego that type of song for the nonce.

IN THE ARMOUR program, to be heard at 9:30 on WBZA and N.B.C. stations, Hackett [illegible] voice [illegible] three [illegible] ballads. [illegible] number one is Moya's "Song of Songs." Number two is [illegible] straight [illegible] the [illegible] song of Paolo Tosti's "Good-bye." [illegible] Worcester [illegible] and excellent [illegible] prise is with an interpolated number of a little more [illegible] and snap.

Charles Hackett

POPULAR TUNES prevail through the majority of programs scheduled for this evening's run. "Should I" and "You're the Cream in My Cawfee" seem to have the edge so far as frequency of performance counts. But their pals, "Lover Come Back to Me" and "I'm Following You" follow them hot-foot. All four tunes burst forth from no small number of programs, both chain and local, in the course of the night.

THE NEAREST thing to a neo-classical offering is the Carmote Caravan, which bivouacs in the studios of WBZA at 8 o'clock. Helen Barr is the soloist; Oscar Elgart the conductor. The arrangement of this local program puts to shame many a chain broadcast. Here it is: "Fete de Seville" (Marchetti), orchestra; "Habanera," from Carmen, Helen Barr and orchestra; "Scarf Dance" (Chaminade) orchestra; Tarantelle [illegible] orchestra; Egyptian Ballet [illegible] orchestra; Rose of the World [illegible]

[illegible] Damrosch said today to his hundreds of thousands of student[s] [illegible] that he started this morning program in his music appreciation series for the schools [illegible] America [illegible] was to be the finest concert of the season [illegible] this great [illegible] in his simple manner on the thing that has [illegible] up his [illegible].

There was [illegible] of the [illegible] Les Preludes [illegible] Liszt [illegible] ner has been [illegible] seemed [illegible] center. He [illegible] ence between [illegible] noted by Liszt and [illegible] symphony. Next he [illegible] substance of Lamartine [illegible] in which he [illegible] conceived Life as a series of Preludes to the [illegible] life and in his poem [illegible] these various preludes. It is the mysticism of this poem which Liszt attempted to translate into music form.

THE PRESS [illegible] White program on Columbia [illegible] career dates 'way back to the days when . . . "Broke" is a heck of a good announcer at times, but [illegible] was one of the first [illegible] to make an impression by intelligent approach to the microphone, but after all he's still just a young chap trying to get along and who is wishing everyone well.

THE TRUE STORY thriller booked for tonight's radio stage concerns the ordeals faced by an orphaned girl. Unlike all other stories ever written, this one [illegible] a "denouement that is indeed stranger than fiction." The title of the drama is "True to Her Own Code." But, as the song says, "Aren't We All."

COAST TEAM ARRIVES HERE

NOSED out in 1929 in the final bouts in their respective classes, two Pacific coast amateur boxers arrived in the Hub as members of a team of fighting hopefuls confident that they will punch their way to titles in this year's national championships, to be held at the Boston Arena next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

AM. TELEPHONE SETS NEW TOP IN BOSTON

American Telephone soared over 6 points in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. A light selling wave halted the spectacular rise of this issue after it had touched a new high for the year at 259¾.

Among the issues to make new highs were General Electric, Public Utility Holdings and S. D. Warren. Jenkins Television added to its gain of yesterday to set a fresh peak at 8⅝, up over a point. Quincy Mining added almost 2 points, making a new high for the year.

American & Continental Corporation was up over 2 points. Engineers gained over a point.

Point or more losses were shown by Fox Theaters, Boston & Maine B stamped, Eastern Steamship, Utilities, Equities preferred, Eastern Gas & Fuel common and prior preferred, Boston Personal Property, Union Twist Drill, United Founders and U. S. & International Securities preferred.

Point or more advances were shown by North American Aviation, Stone & Webster and U. S. & Overseas.

Some of the best ground opened in the Quincy mine has been exposed in the 90th or bottom level of No. 4 shaft. South of the shaft for a distance of 600 to 800 feet it is rich in copper, above the average of the mine. Mass copper and heavy barrel work also abound. Masses weighing from 10 to 12 tons each have been taken out in drifting.

It is estimated that Quincy now has better than 40,000 feet of new openings in which no stoping has been done. The vein on No. 6 hoist is working smoothly and efficiently.

All the mill flotation has reduced losses to two pounds of copper per ton of rock treated. The waste has been lower than this, but the stamping of richer rock has raised the average. The lower the tenor of the feed to flotation, the smaller the losses. Further improvements will be made to obtain a higher percentage of recovery.

Nevada Consolidated Copper Co. reports for 1929 net income after all charges and taxes, but before depreciation and depletion of $19,220,388, equal to $3.96 a share on the 4,857,249 shares agreed upon income of $17,042,349 or $3.50 a share in 1928.

Estimates are that net income of Standard Oil Co. of New York after all charges will be about $15,000,000 more than the 1928 net. In the latter year the company reported net income of $39,643,288 after all charges, or $2.28 a share on 17,363,783 shares (par $25). Decrease of $3,000,000 from 1928 figures would leave net of roughly $38,650,000 after all deductions, which would be equal to about $2.23 a share on the approximately 17,380,000 shares outstanding at the end of 1929.

CURB MARKET MOVES UP

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, April 4 (AP) The curb market continued to move irregularly higher today. The large increase in brokers' loans appeared to have been discounted in a degree as a market influence, and while speculative sentiment remained somewhat confused, many powerful operators remained committed to the bull side. Good earnings of Utilities, oils and specialties continued to meet with strong buying.

Niagara Hudson continued its advance begun with the report of a heavy affiliated earnings. Standard Gas of New York, reaching new high ground in heavy trading. Brazilian Traction resumed its climb into new high ground, and Electric Bond and Share rallied substantially. The United Gas issues, however, continued to trade over a narrow area.

Strong spots in the oils were the higher priced issues. Humble & Gulf, which sold up a few points. Standard of Indiana was firm and fairly active. Cities Service and the Indian Territory issues were somewhat sluggish.

Among the industrials and specialties, Anglo Chilean Nitrate continued it advance into record territory for the year, and was joined by Deere new stock, which is the substantial advance. Fox Theaters A was again firm reflecting rumors that a syndicate is endeavoring to get control, which report may reach an agreement.

Among the less active specialties Jefferson Electric reached new high ground. Pilot Radio Tube moved up slightly, touching 15 for the first time this year. The flight of the airplane, Pilot Radio, in Bermuda attracted considerable buying of this issue. Aluminum Co. ranged in the early trading, but rebounded from a recent decline to high for the year on announcement from Washington of the filing with the Federal Trade Commission of anti-trust complaints."

He Guarantees Steady Jobs to All His Workers

Col. Procter's Plan Is Successful; an Example to Employers

—By B. C. FORBES—

NEW YORK, April 4 — Very cheerful is it, in these days when we hear so much about unemployment, to visit the head of a large organization that has very successfully solved the problem of providing steady employment. Col. William C. Procter, head of the famous soap company of Cincinnati, seven years ago undertook to guarantee to every one of their 10,000 workers 48 hours work a week. The plan, he tells me, has worked most satisfactorily all round.

H. C. Forbes.

Says Col. Procter: "The stabilization which we have brought about in the past seven years is something of an industrial revolution, but it has paid us handsomely in satisfaction and has worked to the benefit of the company, its employes and the users of its products.

He added: "One great benefit we have derived from the stabilization of our business, which has enabled us to do the past seven years to guarantee employment to every one of our 10,000 workers, has been the stabilizing of our advertising.

"With steady and regular production, we are able to make the very important advertising end of our business just as steady and regular; and, because we keep on such an even keel, we are not tempted or thrown off our course by any temporary business derangement such as that through which the country is now passing. We know from experience that if we keep up our advertising, we keep up our sales. We are, therefore, going right ahead using just as much space in just as many media as we did last year.

In addition to guaranteeing 48 weeks' work—less only time lost by fire, flood, strike or other extreme emergency—Procter & Gamble provide sickness insurance, old age pensions, opportunity to purchase stock on easy terms, a profit-sharing dividends.

This policy of considerate treatment of workers has proved profitable, Col. Procter entered the business on leaving college 42 years ago, and became president 23 years ago. He early became interested in striving to do something big for the workfolks, some of whom had started during the regime of William A. Procter, the original partner, of whom Col. Procter is a grandson.

Incidentally, next week Col. Procter's signal achievements in establishing and maintaining steady employment from year's end to year's end, as well as his notable activities as a philanthropist, is to be recognized by many of our leading citizens, by giving a dinner in his honor.

If a concern employing 10000 workers can undertake to give its wage earners 48 weeks' work every year, could not many other enterprises, if sufficiently interested, arrange operations so as to guarantee if not 48 weeks, something approaching steady employment?

Presumably, Procter & Gamble are just as much affected by booms and depressions as are the majority of other organizations. Yet, by taking enough thought, this fine old type of business executive has been able to take care of his workfolks through good times and bad—and to do it without impairing the stability of the company in any way.

This recital is not intended much as a laudation of Colonel Procter as an example, an inspiration, an inducement to other business leaders to address themselves earnestly, conscientiously, wholeheartedly to the problem of providing steady work and avoiding periodical wholesale dismissal of bread-winners.

If America had more Colonel Procters it would have less unemployment at this moment.

Building Gain Over Previous Week Seen in Latest Figures

New York, April 4 (AP)—Building and engineering contracts let in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains from March 22 to March 31, amounted to $144,892,500, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. This compares with the six preceding business days' total of $153,899,400, and with $150,953,400 for the corresponding period of last year, covering seven business days. Contracts awarded since January 1, have reached 31,100,147,300, as against $1,253,829,300 for the same period in 1929.

COPPER SEEN FIXED AROUND 18-CT. LEVEL

That copper is unlikely to fall below 18 cents a pound domestic and 18.5 for export except for short periods in the near future is the opinion indicated by a survey of the industry appearing in the April issue of the new magazine, Copper Today.

The survey stresses the fact that demand for copper depends on general prosperity and is not affected by price, while high prices tend only to cause buyers to wait for further price cuts. The industry has found, it says, that the 18 cent price is necessary if the poorer mines are to be worked profitably and it is doubtful if producers would lower it unless some new source of supply of copper would have to be developed to break on the Stock Exchange and at the same time be cheap.

Even if prosperity were totally unreasonable is their demand for eighteen cents per pound for a long time unwise. The more fact that they asked eighteen cents would not prevent them from getting it in good reasons. There exist from some of the business aspects of the business a lot of which we will recite.

"During 87 of the last 98 years eighteen cents or more has been the average for copper was during the 87 years. Copper has been selling for eighteen cents or more in the United States for the last 30 years. Copper has been selling for eighteen cents or more in the United States for the last 30 years. Copper has been selling for eighteen cents or more in the United States for the last 30 years.

"The consumption of copper depends upon general prosperity and normally in a time period of copper, so much so that.

"If last winter copper had reduced the price to say, 17 cents, that far from stimulating demand, would have caused a further retirement in the ranks of purchasers that everyone would have expected. 16 cents copper is a cent, if not five pennies.

"Copper consumption continues the business instantly, must be set one which is close to the average. If copper is going to be broadly speaking, no such thing as a small copper producers America of the world's production, and 50 per cent of American copper interests are climbed up in Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, and their subsidiaries affiliated.

"Only to a small degree can other producers affect the price of copper by withholding their production; they simply haven't got enough of it. As affecting a big producer it certainly not that these companies have ever agreed together in fixing prices. Each one has to sell all of them have two kinds of mines, one that would be profitable at 12 cents and one that it would not. The result of intricate calculations seems to fix an eighteen cent basis for the price which will maintain the equilibrium."

SHOE ORDERS INCREASE

Shoe manufacturers have increased production somewhat as shown by the index figure of 93 which pays Bradstreet's weekly report.

The total number in other lines, with prices nominally unchanged, the report said "but there is a distinct tendency toward lower prices. General volume in the wholesale and retail jewelry business in 29 cities for the week was 10 per cent below the same period in 1929.

Presumably, Procter & Gamble are just as much affected by booms and depressions as are the majority of other organizations. Yet, by taking enough thought, this fine old type of business executive has been able to take care of his workfolks through good times and bad—and to do it without impairing the stability of the company in any way.

New York Bond Market

CONVERTIBLES ARE LEADERS IN BOND MARKET

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, April 4 (AP) — Another active market for bonds with share features overshadowed dealings in more conservative issues today. The little trading that was done in the railroad lists, however, was on a firmer basis and it was apparent that the tonic effect of an ease in money rates could stimulate the general list rather easily. Time money, however, was a trifle firmer.

Amusement Company bonds with conversion privileges of the Warner Chase warrants took another spirit at the opening but sold off later. The rise carried General Theatres Equipment 6s to another new high at 145. Loew 6s and Shubert 7½s also gained about two points each, but Paths 7s and Warner Brothers pictures 6s moved lower.

American Telephone convertible 4½s equalled their year's high of 185½ in the first hour and then eased only to push to a new maximum above 187 as the stock advanced. International Telephone 4½s and Baltimore & Ohio 4½s Reading Coal & Iron 6s were active with nominal gains.

In the railroad group, New York Central 6s sold within a point of their high of 107¾, but met with offerings at that level and dropped half a point below the previous close. Utility mortgages and the industrials were quiet. Foreign issues reversed some of yesterday's declines.

Fluctuations in foreign bonds held to minor fractions during the early dealings. United States Government were firm.

Wheat Acts Better

After fluctuations at low levels since the first of the year wheat prices, as gauged by the price of No. 2 Red Wheat, have recently leveled off.

By J. W. LAIRD
(Irving Fisher Service)

Amid crestimnations and counter-testimnations, wheat prices in general trended toward lower levels until early last month. Charges were made by the trading element that the government was engaged in a gigantic speculative effort to corner the market; the farm board retorted by suggesting that the wheat trade was attempting to destroy the farm relief program.

Whatever the foundation for these jibes, the fact is that wheat prices have first declined, then more recently, advanced slightly. Whether the government operations and an occasional foreign buying were sufficient to discourage further decline is less important than certain puzzling questions.

When and at what price can the government's holdings be sold? Will the current crop be a short one? How much export demand will arise to improve quotations; that is, will foreign nations be able to buy their only requirements to find their wheat elsewhere than in the United States?

Finally, will the new crop be marketed first, through long-established channels, or will the government supply be fed out on any considerable firming up of prices?

Until these questions are disposed of, the longer view of the trend of wheat prices is obscure.

New York Produce Exchange Dealings

BOSTON STORE SALES FOR 2 MONTHS UP

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue will say regarding trade conditions in Boston.

Industrial improvement throughout this section continues evenly spotty and there is still considerable unemployment. Sales of local department stores for January and February were 6 per cent more than for the corresponding months of last year.

Activity of the New England cotton mills was somewhat lower in January and February than during the corresponding months of the previous year. Buying activity at the beginning of the season at five New England points have been 665,621 bales as compared with 416,166 bales a year ago.

Retail trade and are fairly large at the present time, and though reports on the raw material are gloomy up the mills are not in much currently. New Bedford mills have curtailed about 35 per cent. Stocks of fine goods are not large, prices have been maintained and the demand seems to be increasing. Gray goods are more active. Weaving yards are moderately active and there is more interest in knitting yarns.

Wool textile mills have been failing; are now firmer. Silk mills have materially increased production, but silk dresses are selling rather slowly at present.

Sales of pig iron last week amounted to 3,500 tons and for the current week about 6000 tons. Contracts awarded in New England during the week amounted to $10,867,400, as compared with $7,156,100 for the corresponding week of last year, though the three previous weeks showed higher totals. Building permits applied for in 4 Massachusetts municipalities amounted to $4,810,482, as compared with $7,-663,500 for February, 1929.

Residential building accounted for 32.2 per cent of the total, 229 dwellings, of which 164 accommodated one-family and 47 were two-family houses. Business in the yellow pine lumber is increasing, but its volume is not yet very.

Prices are somewhat firmer.

The shoe business is rather irregular, with relatively more activity in the South Shore factories, making the men's lines than in the factories in Haverhill and Lynn producing women's shoes. Prices on mens shoes are a little lower. Buyers of leather are limiting their purchases closely to current requirements. There have been more calls for black patent leather and the cheaper grades of calf.

The hide and skin market is quiet, with steady prices. Registrations of motor vehicles in Massachusetts for January and February amounted to 352,721, a gain of more than 6 per cent over last year.

National Film Censorship

Careful, Intelligent and Uniform Supervision Would Result From Board of Representatives of All the States

THE moving picture industry apparently does not object to proper censorship.

The only question is what constitutes proper censorship.

Mr. Will Hays thinks that proper censorship is to have moving pictures censored by the moving picture industry.

Experience does not seem to sustain Mr. Hays' contention. There is always a certain element in the industry which will not hesitate to make improper pictures and that element, if unchecked by law, would speedily bring discredit on the whole industry.

IF LEGAL CENSORSHIP WERE ENTIRELY REMOVED, THE MOVING PICTURE INDUSTRY WOULD SOON BECOME AS DISCREDITED AS THE STAGE HAS BECOME.

There has been the contention among dramatic producers that the stage could censor its own productions, and dramatic producers of the better class have attempted to create stage censorship by stage people.

But this well intentioned effort has accomplished nothing to improve the character of modern stage productions, and the drama has so deteriorated that no one greatly regrets its threatened demise, or the fact that moving picture productions are so largely taking its place.

The stage might have been saved by censorship. The screen certainly is restrained within proper limitations by it.

The objection to censorship as it exists at present is the fact that it is of a different kind in different localities, that it is NOT ALWAYS INTELLIGENT AND NOT ALWAYS EVEN HONEST.

There are a number of state censorship boards, each board with a different idea of what should go into a picture or should be taken out of a picture.

Producers are, therefore, harassed by a great number of conflicting opinions and decisions.

Moving picture people never know exactly what will pass the censors.

Consequently they are always in a quandary as to how to make their pictures to please the various censor boards in the various states and at the same time to please the public.

MATTERS THAT ARE UNIMPORTANT FROM THE MORAL POINT OF VIEW BUT VERY IMPORTANT FROM THE STORY POINT OF VIEW ARE FREQUENTLY ELIMINATED BY THE CENSORS, DESTROYING THE CONTINUITY AND DRAMATIC EFFECT OF THE PICTURE.

On the other hand exceedingly objectionable pictures are sometimes allowed to pass the censors without criticism or elision, and recently the expression of public opinion against one picture that had passed the censors in New York was so great that it had to be brought back and recensored and materially modified.

If we admit that uniform censorship and intelligent censorship are of actual benefit for the moving picture industry, then the only question is how to get uniform and intelligent censorship.

It obviously cannot be secured by different boards with different opinions and different methods in different states.

IT PROBABLY COULD BE SECURED BY ONE NATIONAL BOARD OF CENSORSHIP WHICH WOULD REVIEW ALL PICTURES CONSCIENTIOUSLY AND WHOSE DECISIONS AND ELISIONS WOULD BE ACCEPTED BY ALL THE STATES OF THE UNION.

The consent of the states would have to be obtained in order to secure the effective operation of such a board.

This consent would doubtless not be difficult to obtain if a representative of every state was on the board.

Censorships of pictures by the moving picture industry would probably not be any more effective than the attempted censorship of the stage by stage producers, and the consequence of the failure would probably be that more states would establish censorship than now possess it, and that there would be more variety and more pernicious variety of censorship than exist at the present.

It would only take a few offensive pictures, slipping past the board of self-censors, to make state censorship more drastic than it is today.

Why do not the moving picture producers get back of the idea of a single, national board of censorship on which could get not only representatives of the states but representatives of the moving picture interests?

THE INDUSTRY COULD THEN HAVE CAREFUL AND CONSCIENTIOUS CENSORSHIP, UNIFORM CENSORSHIP, INTELLIGENT AND EXPERT CENSORSHIP, AND THE RESULT WOULD BE THAT THE INDUSTRY WOULD BE SAFEGUARDED AND EVEN BENEFITED BY THE CRITICISM OF SUCH A BOARD, AND THE DEMANDS OF THE PUBLIC WOULD BE SATISFIED.

Mr. Hays would better support the practical and practicable idea of national censorship.

His self-censorship will never supplant public censorship, and a trial of it might make the situation for the moving picture producers a great deal worse than it is.

Cut the Red Tape

Port Authority Calls for Experts

THERE seems to be common sense in the desire of the Boston Port Authority to select its employes from outside of the civil service lists.

The type of employe desired by the Port Authority is expert, or should be, and the work of the board should not be hampered by being forced to take men who might not be wanted from the civil service lists. Men, however well equipped to answer questions, may be lacking in the technical knowledge needed by the Port Authority expected to build up the business of Boston's shipping. Red tape should be cut when a special type of service is required.

A Fine Endorsement

THE re-election of Jeremiah E. Burke as superintendent of Boston schools pleases all who know him, and is especially pleasing to teachers in the public schools.

There was a contest, and probably there should be for any public office, but it was good-naturedly conducted, and the unanimous vote of the School Committee for Mr. Burke, after the first ballot, was a fine endorsement of his conduct of Boston's schools as superintendent.

THE LURKING MENACE

THERE was a time when pioneer parents saw their children safely to school—carrying muskets.

There were Indians in the woods.

Now it is perfectly safe for children to go to school alone—as far as Indians are concerned.

But a new and more subtle foe has sprung up, not in the rural districts, but in the crowded city streets.

The dope peddler is recruiting new customers for his nefarious trade. He lurks around the corner from the public school.

He cannot sell dope to an adult who is not an addict. It does not take long to make an addict out of a school boy. The boy finds that "snow" makes him cunning and daring.

He finds ways to steal enough to pay for his heroin. Crime and Dope walk hand in hand. Youth is an easy prey. Avarice is fed.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

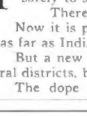
§ 5. "MISSING LINKS."

IT would be possible to give a number of other evolutionary series, almost or quite as perfect as those we have described in detail.



H. G. Wells

The "Titanotheres, the strange, horned extinct mammals, rival the horses in fullness of record. So do the camels. The tapir and rhinoceros families are not far behind. An extraordinary parallel to the later development of the horse-stock is afforded by the evolution of the Litopterna, a group of South American animals, all now extinct. Although many characters prove they were not horses, and not even closely related to horses, they responded to the world-wide change of vegetation in the same way as the horses did.

Evolving from a different five-toed ancestor, they gradually increased in size, lengthened their legs, reduced their outer digits, and from three-toed became one-toed. They grew regular hoofs and their teeth became progressively longer and longer and of more complicated pattern. It is interesting that while their side toes were finally reduced further than in any horse, to mere stubs of bone, their teeth remained less efficient and never formed cement.

Grassy plains developed in South as in North America, and since for long before the Pliocene (V D) the southern continent was wholly cut off from North America, no true horses could then invade it; but the Litopterna developed along a parallel line to fill the same niche in Nature.

The elephants, too, provide us with a fine evolutionary series, which is peculiar in that its trend was first toward the development of a four-tusked creature, with long lower jaw.

Later, however, with increasing bulk, the further elongation needed, if the animals were to continue rooting in the ground with their lower jaw, became mechanically impossible, and at the same time the head, with its great tusks, was too heavy to be borne on any but a stout and short neck.

Accordingly, evolution changed its direction and pushed forward toward a short tuskless lower jaw, while the development of a trunk kept the animal in touch with the ground. And other series almost equally perfect can be found among various groups of carnivores.

In reptiles the fossil crocodiles gradually shift the internal openings of their air-passages farther and farther back along the palate, making it easier for the animal to breathe while holding prey under water in wide-open jaws.

Moreover, series of smaller scope, but greater continuity, like that of Mesaxer, are now available for certain starfishes, lampshells, ammonites, pond snails and other invertebrate forms.

Sometimes the fossil record is not so complete, but yet discoveries, though isolated, may be of startling interest as supplying the "missing links," as our grandfathers called them, between hitherto isolated groups. Typical of such linking types is the primeval bird, Archaeopteryx.

Two almost perfect skeletons of this creature are known, both from the Jurassic period (IV B) in the middle of the Age of Reptiles. The rock in which their form is preserved, at Solenhofen, in Bavaria, is so fine-grained that it is used for lithographic stone and has retained the smallest details, down to those of the delicate feathers.

Birds, as was suspected even before the discovery of this missing link, are descended from reptiles, but are reptiles which are specialized for an aerial life.

In Archaeopteryx we see the specialization in progress, incomplete. In a modern flying bird, for example, the reptilian foreleg as a hand, sideways to serve as wings, and this has necessitated profound changes in their structure.

Several originally distinct bones are welded together for rigidity, and the claws are lost (except in the young South American Hoatzin, the wings used presumably in climbing).

In Other Words

By NELSON HARDING

NEW peak higher than Mount Everest has been discovered, but not named, and if it's high enough we suggest calling it Grundy Tariff.

NEW star hasn't yet been named, either, and we urge the baffled scientists to give up and call on the imaginative lads who name Pullman cars.

THOSE poster wizards would shut themselves in their laboratories, adjust the name finders to the smallest fraction of a syllable and in two minutes pop out reciting:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
We don't have to look so far
For a pifty name for you.
Here age several that will do:
Bellamoola, how is that?
Here's another Zimbersat.
Or, we have Panukavale,
Willtwink and Celadale,
Vuillanoochs, Kuspidore—
Would you like to have some more?"

Recapitulation, First Year

MR. HOOVER became a year-old President this month.

His first year in the White House was about average. He had senators to breakfast, gave interviews to reporters and laid down his unswerving policies to visiting school teachers and boy scouts.

We have had personal contact by complaint blank with many chief executives. All of them seemed to have acted alike when we were around.

We have shaken hands with six Presidents and never lost a finger.

Probably the most invigorating event of the first Hooverized year was the healthy reaction in Wall Street last October.

It was a lovely affair while it lasted. And it lasted.

It didn't bother the Democrats. No voodoo doctor ever concocted a fiercer fetish than a judicious blend of gypsy curses and Democratic hopes in equal quantities.

We have read Mr. Hoover's prosperity bulletins and we hope Mr. Coolidge does better on the side of that mountain.

The next most interesting event was the senatorial investigation of Mr. Grundy of Pennsylvania. The Senate decided that Mr. Grundy has won his spurs and his waste basket. They made him a senator the next week, which may be construed as either a verdict of guilty or innocent.

The naval parley in London was endorsed by the administration. For the first time in history a king broadcast to an American public. He was good, but he wasn't Paul Whiteman.

An amazing episode of the first year was the members of the Republican Club voting for a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Of course, Mr. Hoover can prove he wasn't there when it happened, but he had better cross-question his Cabinet. Those children might have got hold of the life of Andrew Jackson.

The Communist riots are not a question of administrations. The cops chased the Reds around the White House fences, proving you don't have to be an Australian to take part in an Australian pursuit race.

Money is not quite so loose and Andrew Mellon shows no inclination to have his fingernails cut. Andy did reduce the income tax ones per cent, which is almost as happy a thought as putting bright-colored bulbs on an electric chair.

Taking it all in all, which we will have to, we consider Mr. Hoover's first year in the White House a full calendar. Mr. Curtis, the visiting Vice-President, who became famous as Mrs. Gann's brother, kept well in the background and thereby kept well.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE BRIDGE

TOWARD evening I went down to Brooklyn Bridge.

Pretty soggy going. Fog coming in—blurring everything I prowled around the streets for a while. One of the most interesting sights in America — that tangle of narrow, crooked streets on the New York end of the bridge. Something terribly human about them, particularly on a foggy night—like the blind trails you follow through life years— blundering your way along—never seeing clearly where you're going—winding up so often at a dead wall, or in the gutter!

Elsie Robinson

Presently I came out of the tangle, to the bridge itself. Just the beginning of the bridge—all the rest was lost in the fog—

* * *

No matter how often I see them, I can never get over the beauty of those great spans, rising so suddenly out of all the muck and confusion—rising up so grandly and surely—taking off, into a clearer, higher air—rising up, as life rises, out of tangled beginnings and taking off into—where?

* * *

STANDING there, in the fog, with the darkness blotting out that flying arch, I asked myself that question. I was sad. Bitter, perhaps. I had been thinking of my dead boy and of the beauty and pity of that lovely life which had ended at 21. So much had gone into that life.

* * *

So much of my own love and effort, and such priceless contribution from all generations that had gone before. Ever since the beginning of time life had been working toward that boy—forming him out of all the tangled beginnings, until at last his life rose in a flying span . . . only to be cut off so quickly by the dark. WAS THAT THE END?

* * *

STANDING there in the night I asked that question and I knew that all over the world others were asking that, too. And suddenly the Bridge itself seemed to give me the answer.

* * *

I could not see the other end of the Bridge. It was lost in the fog as my boy's spirit had been lost in that fog which my love could not pierce. But I knew the Bridge had another end. I knew that it led to solid land, great highways, busy cities and, beyond them the sweet, green meadows and the sea.

I COULD not see the bridge go on but I knew that it did go on for I knew that men do not build great bridges to end in nothingness. One end of that bridge was proof to me of the other—even though the darkness lay between.

I had seen the beginning of life the beautiful, complicated, infinitely precious beginning of life. And I had seen it vanish in the black, cold fog of death. But did it really vanish? Was that all there was?

Men do not build to end in nothingness.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 4 — Thoughts while strolling: Those chunky fellows who sport big diamond rings and smoke fat cigars in front of chop houses. P. G. Wodehouse's fawn spats. And whose last name sounds like baby talk. "Hemstitching." Tailors don't sit cross-legged in windows any more.

* * *

Burns Mantle, a Watertown, N. Y., boy, who made good in the city. The eerie gloom of a theatrical costume shop. Jules Bache's monocle. Georges, the Algonquin head-waiter, who has been mentioned in a score of novels. The desolation in mammoth fur stores.

* * *

Bill Brady and his wife, Grace. A "hand beauty" parlor. And the tiny shop that sells only combs. The cafe with the profane parrot where sea captains go. Who remembers when boys carried button hooks in the sides of their shoes? Charles M. Schwab steps out of a taxi.

* * *

A JAZZ orchestra advertisement waxes poetic with: "Pleading violins, laughing piccolos, rumbling kettle drums and sonorous bass viols." Emily Post, the authority on good manners, Fred M. Knowles, prowling about for antiques, Phil Dunning, the stage director.

* * *

A thunder storm comes up. Rain spatters down. Nothing prostrates New York like a shower. And no city responds so quickly to outdoors when the sun pops out again. Silly to have to make a living this way. Still it beats following a Missouri plow.

* * *

You wouldn't know Dr. Rockwell off the stage. He seems to have shrunk. The blind negro who recites Omar and the Ballade of Reading Gaol. The library lions are getting their summer scrubbing. W. R. Coe, the millionaire turfman, who spends fortunes raising flowers as a diversion.

* * *

THE side entrance of Fifth ave. five and tens. For the limousine trade. Erlanger's general manager, Jack Dillon. The ex-Broadway wine agent who now clerks in a drug store. Farrar and Rinehart, the young publishers. And so ends another stroll. Poo-hoop-pee-doo!

* * *

It strikes me snatching the baton from Paul Whiteman for a new-fangled arrangement of the tune of the year is "Happy Days Are Here Again!"

* * *

In one of the big hotels nightly a benign gentleman with white whiskers occupies a deep-cushioned chair in the lobby, tucks a large red silk handkerchief in his collar, opens a newspaper and smokes a cigar. The handkerchief is to keep ashes off his vest but is carried out when he stands by, expecting him, no doubt, to hold a bundle out of his pocket or something as a prelude to a sales ballyhoo.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

"OH, I could be content," love said,
"With just an attic bare,
A feeble fire, a crust of bread,
If but my Love was there!"

Ambition heard with doubting ear,
It seemed so strange a thing.
Pride shrugged, Greed listened with a sneer,
Forgetting youth and spring.

For it is easy to forget
That Love has magic ways,
And where its happy feet are set
Joy touches all the days.

Love makes a feast of poorest fare,
And through its attic's gloom
A thousand shining candles flare,
A thousand roses bloom!
